AT THE LASALLE.

Today's feature picture at the LaSalle is entitled "The Chain Invisible," featuring Bruce McRea and Gerda Holmes in the leading roles. The story is of a romantic nature concerning a lumberman, who, having made a fortune, goes to New York with the intention of enjoying all that money can buy. He falls in love with the first pretty society girl he sees and her instinctive liking for the man, despite a premeditated aloofness, and his aggressive method of wooing, links the invisible chain which draws the two together. They leave for a trip and by misfortune are cast on a lonely desert island, which occurrence affords the introduction of picturesque backgrounds for the picture. The photography throughout is particularly commended upon, and the acting of the principals is impressive and forceful. The Paramount Pictograph will also be seen on today's program.

Marie Doro, a charming and talented dramatic actress, will be seen at the LaSalle on Saturday in "The Heart of Nora Flynn." She plays the role of a poor servant girl, but her portrayal of this lovable type of Irish character wins the approval of her admirers. A Burton Holmes travel picture will complete Saturday's program.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

"In 'Waifs,' the Triangle picture being shown at the Auditorium today, Arthur Raeburn, a young theological student, is made the victim of practical jokes among the underclassmen at the seminary, when a punch served at the reception following his ordination is strengthened with rum. The bishop unfrocks him as soon as his condition becomes apparent, and Rene, the bishop's daughter, with whom he is in love, repudiates him. In his despair Raeburn drifts to the slums, where he falls under the influence of Rags, a pretty piano player in a saloon. She falls in love with him and attempts to redeem him, but he becomes more and more despondent and is about to commit suicide when Rags prevents him from carrying out his intention. Now thoroughly under the domination of the girl of the slums, Raeburn's better nature asserts itself and he opens a club for workmen. His new work is very successful and attracts the attention of the bishop, who visits the club, recognizes the young minister whom he has unfrocked, and reinstates him in the ministry. Feeling that he owes a debt of gratitude to Rags, and being aware of her affection for him, Raeburn asks her to marry him. But Rags knows that he still loves Rene and refuses him. The outcome strikes a human note. A splendid cast of players is headed by

Jane Grey and William Desmond. "A Love Riot," a two-reel Keystone comedy, rounds out the bill.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Claire Vincent and company in "The Recoil" is the feature of the bill at the Orpheum, which began at yesterday's matinee. The other four acts round out a program that is interesting and worth while.

In "The Recoil" the story deals with the husband who slips off the matrimonial halter. The wife discovers this fact and with her brother stages a scene that leads her Friend Hubby to believe he has lost his happy home. Miss Vincent as the wife carries off the honors. She plays the part of the weeping wife to perfection and few laughs are missed by the audience.

Follis Sister and Nat LeRoy presented a neat dancing and singing act. Alfred Farrell with his interesting studies in black and white opened the bill. The Five Kitamuras have an interesting tumbling and juggling act.

Medlin, Watts and Towns share honors with the feature act. These three men have good voices and know how to get their stuff over. Their lines were original and they are among the big laughs of the performance yesterday.

INDIANAPOLIS TO GIVE GOVERNOR FINE HOME

Park Board Votes to Present Him Residence in Exclusive Section of City.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 26.—The Indianapolis park board voted Thursday to present a fine residence in one of the exclusive districts of the city to the state as a mansion for the governor. Because the gift cannot be transferred to the state without legislative action, Gov. Raeburn will not occupy it. He said Thursday night, however, that he heartily approved the gift of the board.

"There is no reason in the world why the city should not present the state with a house or a gold mine," said the governor. "I will include a proper recommendation in my message to the legislature. This move on the part of the park board shows a remarkably fine spirit and I think that the state should accept so splendid a gift."

The property was purchased by the park board at a cost of $55,000 in connection with its boulevard work. The city's deed was confined only to the land. Mayor Joseph E. Bell suggested that the house be presented to the state for the governor's residence. The house was built in 1908 at a cost of $50,000.

CHAMBERLAIN IS TO GET CREDIT

Oregon Senator is Considered Factor in Preparedness Movement.

International News Service:

WASHINGTON, May 26.—When the preparedness fight shall have subsided and a careful survey can be made of actual results, there is good reason to believe that a lion's share of the credit will go to Sen. George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, chairman of the senate military affairs committee.

If the United States become involved in a big war, testing every fiber of its power of resistance, a true historian probably would write a few chapters about Chamberlain as the man who made victory possible or, at least, prevented defeat from being so severe.

Sen. Chamberlain has been studying the defense needs of the United States for years. He began when he was a captain of the Oregon national guard many years ago. He has studied it from the viewpoint of a civilian who hates "militarism," but without blinding himself to the essentials of preparedness as seen by the army. When the European war came on and opened the eyes of the United States to its weakness, Sen. Chamberlain, with his years of study, sat down and wrote a bill embodying his ideas of the country's needs for land defense.

Takes No Credit. Sen. Chamberlain never speaks about "his" bill. It is always the "senate" bill, recommended by the military affairs committee. Neither will he take any credit for it. The press of the country, he says, made possible its passage and the job of engineering it just accidentally fell into his hands. Being a democrat doesn't prevent him from giving due credit also to his republican colleagues for the aid they gave him.

His experience as a captain of the national guard convinced Sen. Chamberlain that the main arm of the country's defense must be the regular army. He favored a standing army of 250,000 men, but in order to effect a workable compromise, his bill provided for only 150,000 with an expansive system of organization making it possible to raise the strength of the army to 250,000 with regular army reserves. The senate finally fixed the strength of the regular army at 250,000.

Sen. Chamberlain, multi-militarist strongly favors universal military training, not compulsory military service. He believes that the country has the wrong impression about the consequences of universal military training and points to the example of the republic of Switzerland where boys begin to learn soldiering in the grade schools. He believes the country must sooner or later come to universal military training if it is going to maintain itself as the foremost democracy of the world.

Sen. Chamberlain has introduced a universal military training bill "not so much in the hope of getting it passed but just to get agitation in that direction started," he said. "I believe," he says, "no more sure way could be devised to better this nation. Aside from the purely military feature of universal training, there is a vastly more important idea—the improvement of the physical well-being of the country."

TO ASK WOMEN OF U. S. TO AID IN BIG FIGHT

Mrs. Percy Pennybacker to Urge Convention in 1920 on International Questions.

NEW YORK, May 26.—In her annual address Thursday before the thirteenth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, the president, will urge the women of the United States to take the first step in a struggle for internationalism, by calling a great congress of the women of the Americas for 1920. She will recommend, she said, Thursday night, that under the proper conditions the United States government be asked to help finance such a congress.

The coordination of the efforts of the women of North and South America in behalf of world peace, Mrs. Pennybacker believes, will go far toward accomplishing that end. In line with this idea, Mrs. Pennybacker at Thursday's session, approved the report of the executive committee recommending affiliation of the federation with the National Council of Women.

At Thursday afternoon's business session speeches regarding the advance of the women's club movement in England, Canada, Japan and the West Indies were delivered. At the press conference there was a long discussion on the desirability of a press department after speeches on newspapers and publicity had been made.

There were scores of dinners and receptions Thursday night. Mrs. Pennybacker was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Texas delegation. She was presented with a diamond ring valued at $1,000. Among the speakers were Mrs. Thomas Edison and Mrs. William J. Bryan.

Something else besides prohibition has arisen to divide friend from friend in the south. It is whether cattle shall be dipped for ticks or not. Are you Tick or anti-Tick? Now let the battle rage.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT—FAMOUS QUAKER HEALTH TEACHER COMING HERE TO SOUTH BEND

HAS CREATED STARTLING RESULTS IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY—KNOWN AS "THE MAN WHO PROVES WHAT HE SAYS." TO BE HERE FOR LIMITED STAY.

Quaker Fisher—the Health Teacher—coming to this city. The man who proves what he says is going to prove to South Bend people. The newspapers of this state and nearly every section of the country are devoting much space to Fisher's great work. This famous man stays in each city and town he visits until he is sure Quaker Herb Extract has done a curative work. That's what he will do here in South Bend. He knows from years of experience just what Quaker Herb Extract will do, and he gives the benefit of his experience to the public.

At Detroit, Mich., intense interest was created by Fisher's work there during a stay of many weeks. At Kalamazoo, Mich., the people were startled by the remarkable reports made by former sufferers. At Terra Haute, Ind., the great Quaker Remedies are still in demand, after Fisher has shown wonderful results. It has always been the same wherever Quaker Herb Extract was introduced. It seems as though it remains for this grand remedy to do the work that is left undone by other remedies. And the reason is that it removes the CAUSE. If there is no CAUSE there will be no SYMPTOM. It can now be announced that The Landon Drug Co., with the usual enterprise attributed to that store, have secured Fisher and his guest for a limited stay. He will arrive here in time to open his headquarters at that drug store on next Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. He does not charge anything to talk to those who wish information concerning the great Quaker Remedies. His sole aim and desire is to prove that Quaker Herb Extract will remove the cause of any stomach troubles, liver or kidney disorders. It is really different from any other remedy sold, as it is made from pure herbs, roots, barks, berries, leaves and blossoms. Children and adults can take it, with only the greatest benefits. A trial will soon convince any skeptical person.

Fisher claims—and proves—that tapeworms cause a great deal of the chronic stomach and intestinal troubles. Anyone who has a tapeworm will be given a full size of Quaker Herb Extract free of charge during the first three days of Fisher's stay in this city. This is done solely to prove that Quaker Herb Extract will expel such things easily and harmlessly.

Quaker Fisher will be at The Landon Drug Co.'s store, Michigan and Wayne streets, at 9 o'clock on next Wednesday morning, and will welcome all who have indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia, kidney or liver disorders, catarrh or rheumatism in any form. Quaker Herb Extract will not be sold to anyone until that date. Watch these columns for startling but absolutely true testimonials given by people who derived curative results from the use of Quaker Herb Extract, the wonderful cause remover.
